U.S. Envoy Wins Round One; Austria Treaty Chances Good

... Four Powers Discuss Independence Pact

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Ambassadors of the four powers occupying Austria talked 4½ hours Monday about concluding an Austrian independence treaty. Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl emerged from the conference with the words: "The chances are good."

A communique said "notable progress was made." Participating were envoys from Britain, France, Russia and the United States and an Austrian delegation.

Informed sources reported U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., won the first round of the conference.

Thompson was said to have persuaded the Russians that any delegation could discuss any of the treaty's 59 articles. Most of the articles have been agreed on in previous Big Four meetings, but the Western powers want several reviewed.

After 10 years of stalling, the Russians recently said they were willing to sign the long-delayed pact that would bring freedom to this occupied land and the withdrawal of the Big Four's 70,000 troops.

A sudden change in the Soviet position at Easter made Monday's conference possible. Unless there's a breakup, the Big Four foreign ministers are expected to come to Vienna in mid-May to sign the treaty after ironing out points on which the ambassadors cannot agree.

Quick Accord

The Russians were believed to have agreed quickly to Western proposals on how the conference should be conducted. They apparently want the treaty adopted quickly in the hope it will persuade West Germany to halt her rearmament plans. Austria would be militarily neutralized.

The ambassadors agreed to meet daily. Thompson was chairman Monday. The chair will rotate in order to Soviet Ambassador Ivan I. Ilyichev, British Ambassador Sir Geoffrey Wallinger and French Charge d'Affaires Roger LaLoutte.

Diem Defies Ouster

Premier Handed U.S., French Support

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem—assured of U.S. support—Monday night defied ex-Emperor Bao Dai's power to change governments.

While guns boomed in a fresh drive against rebels who challenged Diem's authority last week, a message sent by Diem and three army generals to Bao Dai's villa on the French Riviera advised him that any new government he might name would not be recognized.

A "states general," an assembly of Vietnamese provincial delegates, has been called for Wednesday by the National Revolutionary Committee with the declared purpose of approving the committee's action Saturday declaring Bao Dai deposed.

Diem learned directly from Gen. J. Lawton Collins, special envoy of President Eisenhower, that the United States still backs his conduct of the embattled South Vietnamese government in the face of local rebellion, French animosity and Bao Dai's disapproval.

France Joins

In Paris French officials, who had been blaming Diem for plunging his country into civil war and clinging to a government they thought did not represent the people, joined the United States Monday in supporting the hard-fighting little Premier. Authoritative French government sources said France and the United States were now prepared to "sacrifice" Bao Dai as chief of state if his removal would produce stability. This was in sharp contrast to French Premier Edgar Faure's summary statement last week that Diem was unequal to his task.

In Washington, the State Department hinted broadly the United States would favor deposing Bao Dai as Vietnamese chief of state unless he quits trying to overthrow Diem. The department's chief press officer Henry Suydam told newsmen America "continues to support the legal government of free Viet Nam" headed by Diem.

Truck Weight, Length Increase Bill Killed

A bill to increase truck length and weight maximums was killed by a vote of the Legislature's Public Works Committee Monday.

The bill would have substituted the new maximums for the tolerance on weight limitations approved by the 1953 session of the Legislature.

The committee vote to kill the bill came after the failure of an attempt to repeal the tolerance but refuse increased maximums. That try to bring the weight situation back to the pre-1953 status failed 3 to 4.

LB 493 had been publicly supported by the Nebraska Resources Division, Better Nebraska Association and the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association.

Ress's Blessing

State Engineer L.N. Ress gave it his blessing at the public hearing explaining that it would not increase axle loads and was much preferable to the present "tolerance" law which the committee refused to eliminate.

A pro-trucking senator said he didn't think any attempt will be made to revive the bill on the floor. He said the full Legislature might then repeal the tolerance but fail to grant higher maximums.

LB 339, a measure exempting vehicles loaded with livestock from being stopped for weighing while in transit, was held by the committee pending further information from the Highway Department.

An attempt to send the much discussed highway recodification bill to the floor of the Legislature hit a snag when the committee failed to agree on how to describe the presently maintained state highway system.

Failed Again

The committee last week decided to junk the streamlined highway system recommended by the state highway advisory commission in favor of the present system. However, the senators and highway department lawyers failed again Monday to find a way to

Twister Damage Small

Tornado Hits Farm Buildings Near Lexington

Nebraskans watched the skies in the east and central early Tuesday morning after a small twister and other heavy storm conditions swooped over the North Platte and Lexington areas.

The Weather Bureau had predicted conditions were right for tornadoes and heavy thunderstorms and the latest severe weather warning lasted until 4:30 a.m. Tuesday.

What was described as a small tornado hit the farm of Wayne Young, 2½ miles northeast of Lexington, and demolished a small building. Two other small buildings and a chicken house were overturned, but no injuries were suffered.

Young and his two sons were in the farm home at the time of the storm. The twister apparently came within 10 feet of the home, he said.

Hit Other Buildings

Young said the same storm went on to hit a small building about ½ mile north of his place and hit a hay barn on the Dennis O'Connor farm 2 miles further to the north.

About the same time, wind gusts measuring up to 92 miles an hour were recorded at North Platte during a thunderstorm. There was also some hail.

In reporting the North Platte storm, the Omaha Weather Bureau said the wind "jumped up suddenly" but soon fell back to between 30 and 35 miles an hour.

Power Failure

At Holdrege, heavy winds and rain swept the city and caused a city power failure that took the State Safety Patrol station off the radio waves.

Farmer Young said he didn't see the funnel of the twister. It was raining too hard and it was too black," he said. He added the storm appeared suddenly, lasted for "two or three minutes" and then quieted down again.

After an early evening prediction that conditions were favorable for tornadoes in the eastern part of the state, the Weather Bureau revised its warning. The revised forecast called for scattered severe thunderstorms that were expected along a squall line from 80 miles northeast of North Platte to Hill City, Kan.

The severity of the storms were to diminish as the line moved eastward, the Bureau said. They were to reach the Grand Island and Lincoln areas about 2 a.m. and to diminish entirely by 4:30 a.m.

Meanwhile, heavy dust conditions lasted into the morning in the western part of the state. North Platte, Valentine, and Imperial reported visibility was down to as low as one mile as dust blew. Winds in those areas ranged from 20 to 30 miles an hour.

Cooler Expected

Tuesday's forecast called for cooler weather over the state with partly cloudy skies called for in the east. In the west, skies were to be fair.

A chance of widely scattered late afternoon thundershowers were called for in the east. The day's highs were to be from 65 in the west to the 80s in the east.

It was hot, dusty and dry all over the state Monday.

The Lincoln mercury climbed to 90 degrees to equal the record set for May 2 in 1928.

Omaha, with 89, also tied a May 2 record. Burwell, with 97, tied with Presidio, Tex., as the hottest place in the U. S.

NEBRASKA: Partly cloudy east, fair west Tuesday. Cooler west and turning cooler east Tuesday afternoon; chance of wide-spread late afternoon thundershowers extreme east. Fair, much cooler Tuesday night. Wednesday fair. High Tuesday 65 west, 80s east.

—Both Mississippi Born— Faulkner, Williams Win New Pulitzer Awards

... 'A Fable' Brings Writer First Prize

NEW YORK (AP)—William Faulkner's "A Fable" Monday won him his first Pulitzer Prize in literature. Tennessee Williams received his second Pulitzer drama award for "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

Faulkner, 1949 Nobel Prize winner, wrote an allegory of mutiny in the trenches of the First World War.

Williams' Broadway hit deals with the dissolution of a Mississippi Delta family. He won in 1948 for "A Streetcar Named Desire."

Two other winners this year also have won the prize before. Both Faulkner and Williams are Mississippi-born.

The Columbus, Ga., Ledger and Sunday Ledger-Enquirer won the 1955 prize for disinterested and meritorious public service by a newspaper. It stems from the paper's news coverage and editorial attack on corruption in neighboring Phenix City, Ala.

Both Texans

For the first time, local reporting awards went to two small town newspaper reporters, both in Texas.

Mrs. Caro Brown of the Alice, Tex., Daily Echo, won her award for risking her life in an expose of 40 years of corruption and terrorism in Duval County, Tex. It was adjudged the best example of local reporting against the pressure of edition times. She covered for The Associated Press as well as her own newspaper.

For local reporting where edition time was not a factor, Managing Editor Roland K. Towery of the Cuero, Tex., Daily Record won a Texas land scandal involving a 100 million dollar fund set up by the state to help veterans buy land.

Besides the prestige, the prizes in letters and music carry awards of $500 each; those in the field of individual newspaper work $1,000 each. The Columbus Ledger receives a gold medal for its meritorious public service award.

Other 1955 winners:

History — "Great River, The Rio Grande in North American History," by Paul Horgan, a book that took the Roswell, N. M., author 15 years to complete.

Biography — "The Taft Story," William S. White's story of the late Republican leader and U.S. senator from Ohio. White works in the Washington Bureau of the New York Times.

'Bleeker Street'

Poetry — "The Collected Poems of Wallace Stevens," a compilation in honor of the 75th birthday last year of the Pennsylvania poet, who is an insurance company vice president.

Music — "The Saint of Bleeker Street," Gian-Carlo Menotti's widely acclaimed opera on a girl reared in New York's Italian section. Menotti won the Pulitzer Prize for music in 1950 with his opera, "The Consul."

National Reporting — Anthony Lewis of the Washington, D. C. Daily News, for a series of articles that restored to duty Abraham Chasanow, dismissed from the Navy Department as a security risk.

International Reporting — Harrison E. Salisbury of the New York Times, who summed up six years as a newspaper correspondent on Soviet Russia in a series of articles, "Russia Re-viewed."

Editorial Writing — The Detroit, Mich., Free Press for an editorial by Royce Howes, the newspaper's associate editor. He analyzed responsibility of both labor and management in an unauthorized strike

Governors Told Communism Is Losing In West

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governors of 45 states were told Monday that a single nuclear weapon can totally devastate 80 square miles of territory. They promptly turned on the heat for more federal help in handling civil defense.

Val Peterson, Civil Defense administrator, informed the governors of the widespread devastation that can be expected from an H-bomb—a hundred times as great as that from the original atom bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

From Secretary of Defense Wilson, the governors got assurances that "our retaliatory possibilities are very great and we are prepared to use everything we have, if necessary, and that is a great deal."

Two-Day Meeting

The civil defense discussion ended the opening day of a two-day conference set up by President Eisenhower for top administration officials to brief the governors on problems of foreign relations, national security, highways, and health, education and welfare.

Nebraska's Gov. Vic Anderson is attending the conference.

The state executives were told at a morning session that Communism is losing ground in Europe and Latin America.

Vice President Nixon, who recently toured the Caribbean, said Communism definitely is on the decline in the Latin American republics.

Harold E. Stassen, the President's special assistant on disarmament, reported that Communism is receding in Europe, although it remains a problem in France and Italy. From now on the major struggle will be in Asia, he said.

Behind Closed Doors

All the deliberations were behind closed doors in the executive office building, across the street from the White House, in the room where Eisenhower holds his news conferences. Frank Bane, executive secretary of the annual governors' conference, gave newsmen a fill-in on what went on.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York told reporters he saw no reason why everything that was said "shouldn't be public property."

He said a "careful reader of the newspapers would be as well informed" as the governors.

Bane said the conference "got into an extensive, heated discussion on civil defense." He said it was "pretty generally agreed" that the present Civil Defense law was based on conditions existing prior to 1950 and is "not at all adequate" in the age of the H-bomb.

'Vote Ash' Signs On City Property

Police picked up between 20 and 25 election signs found on city property in several areas of Lincoln Monday night.

All of the signs urged the reelection of Councilman Pat Ash, officers said.

The signs, attached to wooden sticks, were found in the parking turf between streets and sidewalks. Some of the posters had been erected, officers added, inside the areas of Tuesday's polling places.

$162,860 Base Work Pact Is Let

The contract calls for rigid type paving.

A calibration hardstand is a paved apron on which planes are placed to set their compasses to true north.

Warm Weeks Bring Blooms Before Season

Recent warm weather has resulted in the early appearance of spring flowers and fruit tree blossoms, Dr. C. C. Wiggins of the University of Nebraska horticulture department said Monday.

Even the iris, which usually bloom somewhat later in May, are appearing, the horticulturist pointed out. Lilacs and apple blossoms also are blooming earlier.

Lack of any freezing temperatures the past couple of weeks is responsible, Dr. Wiggins commented.

"We'll hope for no more prolonged freezing temperatures, although just a frost probably wouldn't cause too much damage," the horticulturist added.

6 Adults, 2 Youths Are Injured In Variety Of City Accidents

Car and bike accidents Monday injured eight persons, including an 84-year-old man who was struck by a car he had been riding in. None of the injured were seriously hurt.

Four of the injuries resulted from a two-car collision at 9th and S Monday afternoon. Two were hospitalized and a third treated by a private physician.

The hospitalized were W. W. Hahn, 30, of 639 No. 27, and Ralph H. Hotter, 32, of 403 So. 26th. Hahn suffered a deep cut on the right shoulder, a cut on the forehead, and possible hip injuries. Hotter suffered a deep cut on the left eyebrow. Both were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Hahn and Hotter as well as a third passenger in the car, Robert D. Miller, 30, of 2949 No. 65th are brakemen for the CB&Q Railroad. Hotter was driver of the car. Miller had a bruised chin.

The Hotter vehicle collided with a car driven by John D. Adams, 18, of 2743 So. 38th. He suffered extensive bruises and was treated by a private physician. Adams, a delivery boy for Pat Ash, Inc., was turning onto S Street from 9th while heading north.

Ticket Given

Motorcycle Officer Bob Summers, investigating the accident, issued a ticket to Adams for failure to yield right of way.

An earlier accident resulted in possible fracture of the left leg by John H. 84, of 3009 Dudley. He had been a passenger in a car driven by James McGill, 74, of the same address.

U.S. Prosperity Will Help Defeat Reds—Ike

Future Of America Is Bright

... U.S. Chamber Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prosperity at home and freer trade abroad are major ingredients for a victory over Communism, President Eisenhower told the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Monday.

If the United States adheres to the principles which made it great and at the same time works to develop international trade, Eisenhower said, "we are as certain of defeating Communism as we are that we are all in this hall this morning."

The President received a standing ovation before and after he delivered his informal remarks at the chamber's annual meeting in Constitution Hall.

Peace Based On Justice

"I feel that the aspiration of global peace is based on justice and decency and respect for others, and that it means that we must continue our prosperity at home," he said.

Other speakers painted a glowing picture of America's future—an economic era in which they predicted depressions will be obsolete, the standard of living possibly doubled and "three-car families" commonplace.

About 3,500 businessmen are attending the meeting which runs through Wednesday.

Eisenhower, plugging for the foreign trade program he has asked Congress to enact, told the delegates that in the interests of freer world trade "we must make some concessions—and some here and there will be a bit painful."

But if the program goes through and international trade is strengthened "we simply cannot lose in the struggle against communism," he said.

3-Year Extension

The Eisenhower program calls for a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act with authority for the President to reduce tariffs 15 per cent during that period in return for similar trade advantages in foreign markets. It has passed the House and is being debated in the Senate.

As to government regulation of business, Eisenhower said, "we must never accept it if it means surrender of this vital principle" of individual rights—"the greatest good for all of us."

He said the Communists urge on the other hand: "Forget yourselves and build up the state."

State Auctioneers Elect D. Grubaugh

ALBION, Neb. (AP)—Dick Grubaugh of David City was elected president of the Nebraska Auctioneers' Assn. as the group wound up its seventh annual convention.

James W. Martin of Chappell was named vice president and Marvin Grubaugh of David City, secretary. Chosen as directors were: Herb Forke of Lincoln, Leon A. Nelson of Albion and Don Zicht of Norfolk.

The livestock industry in Nebraska and the nation is faced with "constant danger" from introduction of foreign disease, Dr. J. L. George of Lincoln, state veterinarian, told the convention.

Because native livestock "carry no natural resistance whatsoever," he said, "devastating results to our national economy, food, milk and livestock products could very easily come about."

'55 Auto Accident Toll Reaches 92

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP)—The name of Johann Wilke, 70, Columbus, has been added to the Nebraska traffic toll.

He died in a Columbus hospital from injuries suffered in a one-car accident on a county road east of here. The 1955 toll was raised to 92, compared to 96 on May 2 last year.

Doom Town Still Intact

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (INS) — The multi-million dollar atomic production "Doom Town Destroyed" began to look like a prize flop Monday as the audience walked out.

The weather experts' decision that the 40-kilaton bomb of "Operation Cue" could not be fired before Wednesday, at the earliest, added new members to the already thick stream of would-be atom bomb watchers leaving Las Vegas.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration estimated that two-thirds of the 1,200 or so CD observers who had come here from all over the country for the so-called "open shot" already had left.

The new postponement, plus the indication that weather conditions on Wednesday probably will not be favorable for the atomic blasting of doom town, started more observers on their way home.

Must Pay Tax—Even If It Is Illegally High

An attorney general's opinion Monday held that residents of a school district where an illegally high tax is levied must pay the tax and then submit a claim for a refund.

State Education Commissioner Freeman Decker asked the opinion in connection with a school district where the County Board of Equalization imposed a levy sufficient to raise money in excess of the funds required.

The district, said Decker, asked that $50 be raised by taxation. The board then imposed a mill levy sufficient to raise $5,000.

Asst. Attorney General H. G. Hamilton ruled that taxpayers must pay the tax and then submit a claim for a refund on the grounds that it was an illegal and unauthorized tax.

Hamilton said he does not interpret the action of the county board as a clerical error. If it were a clerical error, those who have not paid the tax would be relieved but those who had could not submit a claim.

SALK VACCINE DISTRIBUTION—Demand Is Growing For Federal Control

... Early House Hearings Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking Committee said Monday he would hold hearings "as soon as possible" on appeals for federal controls over distribution of the Salk polio vaccine.

Spence said a warm controversy is developing over whether the government should step in and decide who will get the vaccine first, or whether allocations should be left to private channels.

"Certainly it is very essential that the vaccine be distributed properly and equitably," the chairman added in an interview. "We will look into it immediately."

WASHINGTON (INS)—Health, Education and Welfare Sec. Oveta Culp Hobby said Monday that, if necessary, she will recommend to President Eisenhower that federal controls be placed on the distribution and use of Salk polio vaccine.

federal law to see to it that the vaccine goes first to those who need it most. Generally speaking, these are children from 5 to 9 years of age.

Meanwhile, the National Advisory Committee on Polio Vaccine went ahead with its work on details of a voluntary system of allocations and age-group priorities.

Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele of the Public Health Service said the administration is sticking to its position that a voluntary system is the best way to handle the "very difficult problem."

Among the subjects listed for the advisory committee: State-by-state allocations; age group priorities within the over-all age group of 1-through-19; and the possibility of firmer government action to assure fair distribution.

Hearings Soon

Spence said he hoped hearings before his committee could be arranged within a week.

Spence said he didn't know now whether he would favor federal priorities and allocations in distributing the vaccine, but if the shortage is acute and abuses are likely then, "I think maybe these may be very meritorious bills."

He referred to a number of bills introduced by House members calling for federal intervention.

County and state law enforcement officials are still checking leads in an attempt to track down the safe robbers who hit business houses in Wilber, Tecumseh, Humboldt and Falls City last week.

City Water System Program To Get A Review By Council

A detailed review of the city's water system improvement program and a look at future needs will be taken by the City Council in a special meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Public Works Director D. L. Erickson will bring the Council up to date on improvements that have been made and funds expended and on hand. Also attending the session will be Ed Farmer, member of the firm of Black & Veatch of Kansas City, Mo., which prepared Lincoln's present improvement program.

"We will definitely be looking toward future expansion," Mayor Clark Jeary said, "and might call for planning by the end of the month on improvements for the latter part of this year or early in 1956."

The current program, costing in excess of $6.5 million, has boosted the city's water supply from 30 to 43 million gallons of water per day. Future work, Jeary said, will depend on anticipated needs and available funds.

Christian Science Lecture Is Given

True enjoyment, happiness, and peace of mind are gained through love for God and respect for His law, said James Harry McReynolds of Dallas, Texas, in a public lecture here Tuesday.

Lack of obedience to the First Commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me," (Exodus 20:3) is the source of all of mankind's fears, mistakes, and failures, the lecturer declared.

Mr. McReynolds broadcast from the church edifice at 12th and L Streets at the invitation of First Church of Christ, Scientist. Now on extended tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, he spoke on the subject, "Christian Science: The Way of Obedience to Divine Law." It was introduced by the First Reader, H. A. Wendland.

"The straight line of obedience to the First Commandment . . . is the quickest as well as the only effective way to overcome any inharmonious condition or successfully achieve any legitimate purpose," Mr. McReynolds declared.

He described as fallacious propaganda the contention that peace is not possible between men and nations.

Permanent peace will be found to be practical, he said, "when we come to have faith in God, divine Love, and are willing to exalt and uphold peace instead of halfheartedly supporting it."

Dr. Axilrod Is Indicted In Patient Death

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A grand jury Monday returned an indictment charging Dr. A. Arnold Axilrod with first degree murder in the strangling death of Mrs. Mary Moonen, 21, whose body was found in an alley here April 23.

The 49-year-old dentist has been in custody since a few hours after the body of Mrs. Moonen, an expectant mother, was found.

Detective Inspector Charles Wetherill said Dr. Axilrod had told him Mrs. Moonen had accused him of being the father of her unborn child, charging the dentist assaulted her while she was under the influence of a sedative during a visit to his office for dental work.

Two Children

Dr. Axilrod has denied the accusations.

The dentist is married and the father of two children. Mrs. Moonen and her soldier husband, Mathias, who returned from Korea for her funeral, are the parents of a 9-month-old daughter, Gloria.

Dr. Axilrod told Wetherill he was riding with Mrs. Moonen the night of her death. He said he "blacked out" after becoming "boiling mad" when she repeated her accusation.

Why buy an off make room cooler when you can buy a room air conditioner?

Preview Of 1975

If delegates attending the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce could believe their ears Monday, it is going to be a great day—make no mistake about that—on May 2, 1975.

There is Little Junior. He jumps into his atomic hot-rod, turns on the air-conditioning, and heads for a ball game in Yankee Stadium 220 miles away. Mom and Pop, apparently feeling a little fed up with life, are spending the day in Paris—a six-hour round trip in a 200-passenger jet plane. Mom did not have to wash the breakfast dishes; merely flicked a sound wave gadget that washed them, dried them and stacked them.

It was the atomic age of a peaceful world. Trains, ships and automobiles, all atomic-powered. For city driving, the automobile was slanted to be tiny, capable of turning on a dime, but out on the super-highways the car of 1975 would be an air-conditioned cruiser 20 feet in length. Underground moving sidewalks will handle city traffic. Stores will have open fronts—invisible curtains shutting out the cold air of winter and the hot air of summer.

It was in housing where the biggest changes are slated to put in an appearance. Outer walls will be of glass, the kitchens of prefabricated units equipped with foolproof cookers operated by push buttons.

That is the prospect for at least 207 million men, women and children by 1975, a lot of people moving at a dizzy pace from sunup to sundown, but not too dizzy not to find time for recreation for at least half of the waking hours. Sounds good, we say. Perhaps it will be better to wait and see.

Nebraska's Thumbs Down

Nebraska's Unicameral Legislature spoke emphatically in this matter of a turnpike authority. By a solid vote of 26 to 15 Monday—nearly two to one it was on record for abolishing the agency established by its predecessor two years ago. There was not much question as to the chief source of opposition to a toll road authority. The original legislation creating it simply conferred too broad powers upon the turnpike authority to satisfy the people of a state noted for their caution and conservatism.

Unfortunately, it has seemed, the only choice was between an authority with unlimited, uncurbed powers or an agency limited more or less to window dressing when it came to getting the job done. There was no middle ground. Either it was a turnpike authority endowed with uncured powers or an agency of that character helpless to do anything in a real sense because of lack of authority to take the steps needed in toll road construction.

In the absence of Governor Anderson, Lieut. Governor Warner signed the bill, conforming to the governor's views. We may awake to discover that we made a serious mistake. Our neighbor to the east, Iowa, seems to be in deadly earnest in building a toll road as a link in the east-west-coast program. Repeal, however, does not necessarily need to be fatal in toll road planning. We reversed ourselves once and there is no good reason why we can't do it again.

Operation Miscue Worth It

Former Gov. Val Peterson has worked manfully as federal civilian defense administrator to make the nation deeply sensitive to its own security in event of emergency.

Much of it has been an uphill pull despite the reality of the H-bomb and a world that contains some powerful enemies.

It was some sort of a poor pay-off at Las Vegas, Nev., when Operation Cue became Operation Miscue. Val had summoned his best publicity forces, arranged a demonstration bombing-dropping and invited in scores of high-ranking civilian leaders, including our own Gov. Victor Anderson and two state senators.

While the dignitaries cooled their heels between rehearsals for the big blast, the winds arose. The men of science and those of the military in charge of the venture postponed the whole thing. The dignitaries returned home warmed up somewhat by the arguments for civilian defense, but concerned mostly with convincing citizens generally that they had not been just junketing.

Nebraska citizens do not feel overly critical because its representatives spent time and money taking a dry run. Rather they share the feeling of the nation generally in approving the scientists for refusing to be stampeded into a bomb explosion whose consequences might have been tragic. The men of science did not care who was there to watch or what earnest cause was to be served. They measured the high winds and recalled their responsibilities to people in general. They proved worthy of their trust.

Operation Cue did not come off. Its teachings are mostly lost. But the thing that did come off, bigger by far than civilian defense, was an example to war-makers and statesmen, to people generally to take no chances with nuclear calamity. That is better security than civilian defense.

Still Work To Do

It is tragic that several children who received Salk vaccine contracted polio but it is also significant that the unfortunate incidents connected with nation-wide immunization so far are remarkably few in number. Thus far that has by no means been enough counter hazard to evoke general loss of confidence in the conquest of polio.

On the basis of the 1954 field tests there will be an incalculable number of children who will be spared the rigors of the disease and uncounted deaths and cripples will not occur.

Meantime, no effort should be spared, no dollar reserved to tighten up the procedures of testing and distribution of the new vaccine. Continued research must go on until it is completely certain that polio immunization has reached as near perfection as is humanly possible. In this every citizen has a part—continued giving to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Secure Future

A House investigating committee is looking critically at reports showing the navy has 8,861,000 pounds of hamburger—a 60-year supply. Meantime, the Hoover commission says the sea-going branch has a 35 year supply of canned bacon. All we can make out of that is that the navy has worked out its own survival. Who ever heard of liquidating a branch of service with that much left to eat?

Under-Ice Subway Planned By Army

WASHINGTON — It hasn't been announced yet, but the Army Engineers will burrow under Greenland's mighty icecap this summer and, if successful, run subway trains beneath the packed snow and ice just as subways now run under New York City.

This spectacular project, known as Operation Icecube, is awaiting final approval by the Danish authorities who govern Greenland. A volunteer construction crew of six officers and 172 men, commanded by Lt. Col. Elmer Clark, is standing by to begin the dangerous tunneling through the solid, million-year-old ice. Their work will be supervised by 60 scientists, all arctic specialists.

Using the latest snow-tunneling equipment, they will bore 100 feet below the ice to build this unique, deep-freeze subway. Purpose is to link scattered arctic outposts by fast electric trains that will streak under the icecap with troops and supplies.

Greenland stands — a mammoth, stationary iceberg — in the path of Soviet bombers that could strike America from arctic bases. Actually the island is a huge submerged valley, packed to the brim with snow that spills over the mountainous outer rim into the sea. This tremendous snowdrift, accumulated for centuries, is nearly two miles deep at some points.

The surface is a Sahara of snow, whipped by winds over 150 miles an hour, frozen by stark, 70-below temperatures. But underneath, the conditions are calm, the temperature is a constant 13 degrees below zero.

Besides protection from the terrible storms and severe temperatures, the proposed under-ice transportation system would be safe from detection by enemy bombers. Already the Army Engineers have built sinking Arctic outposts, whose buildings are designed like submarines to sink on an even keel, leaving only antennas and hatchways poking above the snow.

Construction on the Arctic subway will begin in July, probably near Thule Air Force Base. The first effort will be experimental to determine how feasible the project is. Cost is expected to run no more than it takes to build an average, two-lane concrete highway.

But its value may be immeasurable in conquering the forbidding but strategic arctic — another triumph for American ingenuity.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Readers of the Clarksburg, W. Va., Exponent rubbed their eyes in amazement when they saw Westbrook Pegler's name over a column praising Franklin Roosevelt on the tenth anniversary of his death. They wondered whether Peg had had a reformation or a stroke. What happened was that a typesetter put Pegler's name over my column printed on the anniversary of Roosevelt's death.

A Daughter's Lo-o-ng Bedtime Preparation

There comes a time in the life of all parents when self-restraint skids on the banana peel of circumstance, and reasonableness takes a header.

Nothing is so well calculated to bring on such a time as the preparations of a 13-year-old daughter for going to bed. These involve a process which ought to start at 8 o'clock in the morning, if it is to be completed by curfew time.

Bedtime for our daughter, Merrill, is supposed to be 9:30, except for rare and prearranged occasions. She is supposed to start getting ready for bed at 9 o'clock. Of course, we've always tried to be reasonable about a few minutes one way or the other. Parents, we have always felt, should try to be reasonable about everything — just to set an example of fair play, if nothing else.

The theory has been badly cracked for some time. Now it's busted.

"It's 9 o'clock," said Mrs. F. to Merrill the other night. "Time to get ready for bed."

"Okay," said Merrill cheerfully. "Can I finish just this paragraph? It's the last one in the chapter."

It was a reasonable request, and cheerfully granted. The paragraph took five minutes to finish. Merrill started upstairs. She came back down. She asked her mother if her gym suit was clean. Mrs. F. said yes — it was in the laundry room. Merrill went after it. She would put it where she could see it, and wouldn't forget it in the morning, she said. She went upstairs again. We heard the water running in the bathroom.

At 9:35 she was still in the bathroom. In answer to my protest, she said she had to fix her hair. I admitted that it was reasonable cause for delay. Ten minutes later she came downstairs.

"Hey!" I said, "You haven't even got your pajamas on yet!" Her fingernails, it seems, had needed attention. She went into the kitchen. Five minutes more, and I called to her. "What are you doing in there?" "Eating an apple," she explained. "I always have an apple before I go to bed."

It was true, and reasonable enough. I bit my lips and kept silent. Not for long, though. A rustling of papers aroused me. I said it was taking a long time to finish that apple. She said it was finished — she had to get her school books in order, so she could find them in the morning. I said to do that in the morning. She said okay, and went up to change into her pajamas.

Fifteen minutes later I went upstairs. Lights were bright in her room. I roared. She pointed out reasonably enough that she had to cover the parakeet's cage, fold her clothes and put them away, clean up some games from the floor, and —

I do not know how many other reasonable things there were that she should have done. I stopped logic. I threw away the book.

"You get in bed!" I roared. It worked too. As I said in the beginning: There comes a time — The time, on this occasion, was 10:52 p.m.

GOP Liberals Join Demos To Aid Ike

WASHINGTON — The arrival of spring has stirred from a long hibernation two groups of politicians who have normally furnished their respective parties with new ideas and new goals. They are the GOP progressives, now called Eisenhower Republicans, and the New Deal Democrats.

For a long time the President's avowed followers have seemed to be the Senate's forgotten men. Though they include such personalities as Duff of Pennsylvania, who as governor fought a machine to a standstill, they have done little to explain, much less expand, their progressive inheritance.

They did not have the votes to upset the conservative Knowland-Bridges-Milliken leadership on their side of the aisle. The President gave them little encouragement while his White House congressional liaison was chosen from the right wing. Nevertheless, the floor was theirs on demand, and they could not be denied access to the President. Instead they left his political education to others.

Twelve of this group have now moved to the side of the President in his cease-fire negotiations with Communist China. To do so they had to shove over an almost solid phalanx of Democrats led by Sen. George, the bell-wether for the idea.

Senator Knowland is now in retreat from an inferential suggestion that he might resign as leader in protest against the Eisenhower moves. But Knowland is remarkably sincere in a rather expedient profession. The job for Eisenhower within his party will remain to be done by the intrepid twelve.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota took off the gloves on the administration farm and foreign policy. He was ably assisted by Sparkman of Alabama. Between them they got on the record many things that Adlai Stevenson has been urged to say by those most firmly committed to his candidacy for president.

This, too, represented a kind of unveiling. Between the theory that it was politically unsafe to suggest that Eisenhower might be imperfect and the emphasis on unity of their Senate leader, Johnson of Texas, the Democratic liberals have been almost as silent in public as the Eisenhower Republicans.

Between them, Sens. Humphrey and Sparkman developed the thesis that the administration has accepted the idea that agriculture is big business and gives only token sympathy to the marginal and family farmers who are in trouble. He took on the President directly with the assertion that Marshal Zhukov, the Eisenhower "pen pal," could not live and violate the Communist policy.

The senator from Minnesota may of course be wrong. But he is at least starting to raise the right questions, which is the function of the minority in a republic.

Garden Glances With The Moon

"... I must drop everything and return to Switzerland once more. It is a longing, a deep, strong, tugging longing."

—Mark Twain

FRANKFORT, Germany—I wonder if Mark Twain had ever been to the lake region of Italy when he penned the above lines. Beginning at Lake Como, we came upon a dream world of beauty — magnificent villas and gardens filled with camellias, rhododendrons, azaleas, red-bud and magnolia solange all bloom, which reminded us mightily of our Deep South — sunshine, soft air and blue water. The night air is cold as along all waters after sundown, but the days—halcyon and all too short. Lake Gardo and Lake Maggiore, are the loveliest of all with three fantastically beautiful islands. Isola Bella boasts a 17th century palace and gardens containing plants from all parts of the world.

At Domodossola we wheeled our auto, which we affectionately call "Alfred," onto a flat car with a bus and many other autos and motorcycles for the shortcut through a tunnel into Switzerland. Then we lunched and boarded the passenger train (which runs every hour) with all the other motorists. Many do motor all the way, but on this day no one could because the pass had been momentarily closed by an avalanche the day before. We left the train at Brig about an hour and a half later, claimed "Alfred" and were once again motoring through magnificent scenes of land, sky and water.

Spring had arrived in Switzerland and every fruit tree, magnolia solange, redbud, azalea, forsythia, etc., was flaunting its beauty in the warm spring sunshine. Swiss pansies are gigantic in size and of the deepest velvety hues. Unlike we do in America, the Swiss plant pansies in masses of one color only, as yellow pansies with forget-me-nots and deep red tulips — Swiss blue ones with bright red tulips. This is striking and very effective and far more pleasing to the eye than a jumble of mixed colors. After all, the Europeans have been making an art of gardening for centuries and we can well take a lesson or two from them.

Through Montreaux on the Lake of Geneva, we passed the "Castle of Chillon" which most young girls of the 'eighties and 'nineties painted in oil at boarding school. Do you have one in the family archives? I grew up with one that a sister of my mother had painted, and a very good one, indeed, because I recognized Chillon from memory before we were even close enough to read the name. "Chateau de Chillon," above the gate. It was exciting to motor into Geneva, in the late afternoon and then catch a good glimpse of snow-capped Mont Blanc from our hotel window as the sun set on it. Something to remember so long as we live.

From Geneva to Bern, the capital, where we lunched and then on to Zurich for two days. Zurich held particular interest for us because one of George's ancestors, Ulrich (spelled Ulrich in the 16th century) Zwilling on New Year's Day, 1519, began to preach the faith of the Reformers in the Grossmünster, a Romanesque style church dating from the 11th to the 13th century. The two Gothic towers were added at a later date and the modern bronze door reliefs in 1935-36. A bronze statue of Ulrich Zwilling stands near and dominates a small park bordering the river.

I bought a "Hermes Baby" in Zurich. I saw one two years ago in California but never dreamed I'd be in Switzerland so soon and get one of my very own. In case you wonder, it's a portable typewriter — the smallest and lightest ever and like Swiss watches, it is of precision make.

Another interesting experience — coming from Zurich to Munich, Germany, by auto, one traverses a corner of Austria and all in an hour's time. We showed our passports, auto papers, etc., six times. Munich is an enormous city, of great beauty, and now after 30 years still shows the marks of war to a pronounced degree but the reconstructed shops hold the most "high-fashion" clothes I've seen since Florence and Milano. The Bavarian Alps are amass of pine trees, yellow primroses and blue gentian right now.

The moon's signs — today the moon is in Libra, second quarter, which is a movable, semi-fruitful sign. Then the fixed, watery and very fruitful sign, Scorpio, follows on Thursday, and late Saturday or very early Sunday the moon will enter the flexed, fiery and very barren sign, Sagittarius. Third quarter will have begun on Friday morning; it is then one plants those things that produce in the soil.

Here in Frankfurt-am-Main 11:30 night Bob Meehan and Jerry Desmond are coming to have dinner with us. Bob arrived in Germany last January and Jerry has been here well over a year. It is exciting to know that we soon will see and talk with two young Lincoln men we know. So until another day —

Clean Wheat Order

Hebron, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: A new clean wheat order issued by the U. S. Pure Food and Drug Administration is being enforced by the Agriculture Department.

It is evident Secretary of Agriculture Benson has adopted the report to knock the guaranteed price support from under the wheat stored on the farms.

All such farmers have received notice what to expect when they deliver their wheat if it contains any foreign matter or light contaminated grains.

If this so called contaminated wheat is sold for feed as ordered at the price of corn it will reduce the price of all feed grains.

The miller is the best judge of wheat that is not fit to be milled into flour and when it is bought by the mills to be processed into feed, they will be the judges of whether it is to go with the feed grains or into the milling wheat bins.

The public need have no fear it is getting flour from contaminated wheat, for there is no food on the market that is freer from foul matter than the flour as it comes in the original package from the mill.

An ex-miller, I started from the bottom and served for years as superintendent and owner, and I speak from experience.

This order issued by the Pure Food and Drug Administration and being enforced by the Secretary of Agriculture would lead the public to believe that wheat as it is delivered by the farmer to the market is milled into flour with no further processing.

In fact, it is running separators, scouring and brushing machines, washed, tempered and run through the same machines a second time before it enters the grinding bins.

Then the bran, the outside covering, is removed before it is ground into flour. Even the inside part of the wheat kernel is run through a pure fire before it reaches the grinding machines.

From the time the wheat reaches the first storage bin it never comes in contact with a living creature or insect of any kind and is never touched with human hands until it is packed in the original mill containers.

There is no food in the market that is as free of contamination as the flour you buy in the original package as it comes from the mill.

The public is safe when the miller determines what wheat is milling wheat and that which should be condemned and processed into feed.

OFF THE RECORD

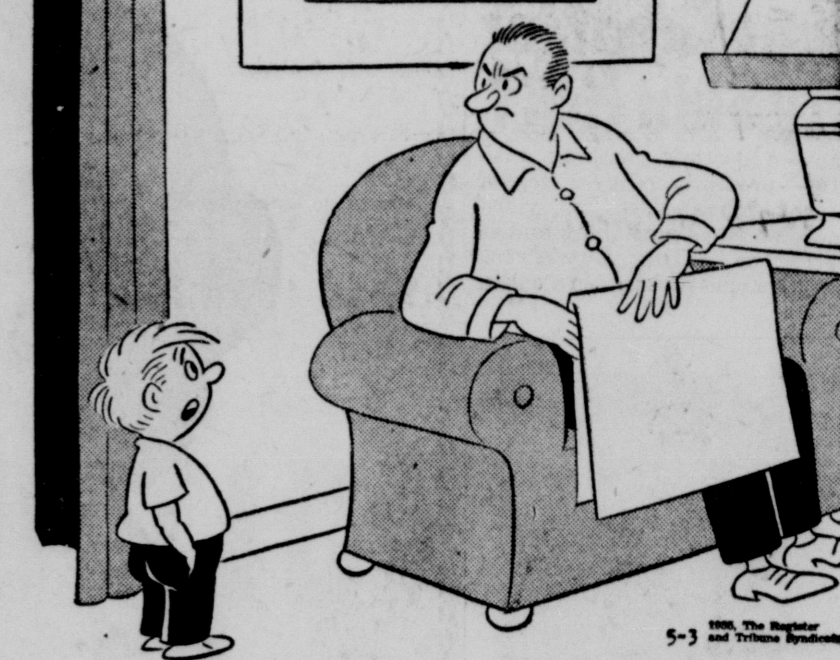

Ed Reed

There is no food in the market that is as free of contamination as the flour you buy in the original package as it comes from the mill.

The public is safe when the miller determines what wheat is milling wheat and that which should be condemned and processed into feed.

Anyone who has any doubts about the cleanliness of the flour should visit a mill and have the miller in charge show him just what process the wheat goes through after it enters the mill.

Poet Of The People

When bicycles are lying there In childhood's heedless disarray, They make it plain that that is where The children are allowed to play.

Where vane are rake and hoe and spade To keep the lawn a thing of grace, That is the place where, unafraid, Across the grass the children race.

Where toys are wildly strewn about And grown-ups have to walk with care, The children know beyond a doubt That they are always welcome there.

Though noise the nerves may often jar, Peace sometimes asks too great a price, To know just where the children are Is comforting and very nice.

Hail Of Bullets Kills 1 Jailbreaker; 2nd Wounded; 3rd Gives Up

Big New York Manhunt Ends

HOPKINTON, N. Y. (AP) — One desperate jailbreaker died Monday in a hail of state police bullets, a second was wounded and Monday night the third quietly surrendered.

That ended a manhunt that had brought one of the greatest concentrations of police in the state's history into the sparsely settled northern New York area a few miles from the Canadian border.

Desperado Frank (The Hook) Talarico, haunted by fear of a lifetime behind bars, defied a ring of state police who surrounded him as he slept beneath a tree.

The 44-year-old Talarico, from Utica, died in the hail of bullets from nine rifles.

Expected To Live
Ralph LaShomb, 29, of Potsdam, was wounded. His right leg was amputated at Potsdam General Hospital but hospital attaches said he was expected to live.

At 9:06 p. m., nearly 13 hours after the ambush, 26-year-old Patrick Brooks of Gabriels quietly walked into the St. Lawrence County sheriff's office at Canton and surrendered.

He was accompanied by another person who had driven him there. The companion was not identified immediately.

The three and another man had broken out of the county jail at Canton after slugging a jailer last Wednesday. They stole two revolvers from the same office.

'Scared Him'
Capt. Harold Muller of the state police said that he believed that Brooks had gone to the home of some relatives and that they had taken him to the sheriff's office. The incident this morning probably kind of scared him," Muller said.

Talarico and LaShomb were found asleep in a sun-drenched clearing on a farm a few miles west of here. Troopers formed a semicircle around them and shouted.

The pair scrambled awake. "Shoot," Talarico commanded LaShomb. Police rifles cracked first. Talarico died with his shoes off. He had three felony convictions against him. A fourth meant life.

Third Man Dies

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Police aid Juan Carlos Trovino died, the third fatality caused by the explosion last Wednesday of a terrorist's bomb.

Sixteen-Year Dream Signed Up

Mayor Clark Jeary signs contracts for construction of the new Pershing Memorial Auditorium, ending a struggle which began in 1939 to give Lincoln such a facility. Witnessing the event are Council Joseph E. Fenton (right) and Pat Ash who served with Jeary on the City Council's special auditorium committee which handled the many details preceding this signing. In the background between Jeary and Fenton is an architect's drawing of the auditorium as it will look when completed. (Star Photo.)

Auditorium Work Set To Start This Week; Contracts Signed

Contracts for construction of the new Pershing Memorial auditorium at 15th and N have been approved by the City Council, clearing the way for an expected start on the building this week.

Preliminary engineering work on the job is expected to be done immediately with ground being turned by the end of the week. Under terms of the contract, work must start within five days.

The deadline for completion of the auditorium is Oct. 1, 1956. The three low bids for the work accepted by the Council totaled $2,083,598.

Awards made were as follows: General contract, Olson Construction Co., $1,312,989.

Plumbing, heating and ventilation, Natkin & Co., $543,300.

Electrical wiring, Commonwealth Electric Co., $237,400.

The award of contracts ended a nearly 16 year struggle to get an auditorium built. The first charter amendment for bonds to finance the building was submitted in 1939.

Fairless, In Steel Business For 42 Years, Steps Down

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP)—Benjamin F. Fairless stepped down as board chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., Monday after 18 years of high executive posts in the world's biggest steel company and 42 years in the steel business.

He told the biggest stockholders' meeting in the company's history that he would reach his 65th birthday Tuesday and "under the retirement rule which prevails in our corporation, I must then step aside and surrender the responsibilities of my office to capable and younger hands."

Standing Ovation

More than 900 stockholders gathered in a public auditorium and the announcement brought a round of "ohs." Later the packed throng gave Fairless a standing ovation and sang, "Happy Birthday to You."

He then announced that a successor would be chosen at a meeting of the board of directors Tuesday. Fairless said he would remain as a director and as a member of the finance committee.

Fairless has served as board chairman since 1953. He was president of U.S. Steel from 1937 to 1953.

The son of a coal miner, Fairless began his steel career in 1913 and advanced rapidly in the industry.

In steel circles, speculation concerning his successor centered about the names of Roger M. Blough, vice chairman of the board and general counsel, and Clifford F. Hood, president of the corporation.

In his address to the stockholders, Fairless called the firm's present prospects "the brightest in its history."

"It is now evident," he said, "that a further expansion of our facilities will be imperative if the present demand for steel continues in the months ahead, as I hope and believe that it may."

Stockholders, as expected, adopted by a huge margin a proposal for a 2-for-1 stock split announced by the directors in January.

Petitions Presented For Merger Of 3 Walton Districts

Petitions for the dissolution of three Lancaster County school districts in the Walton area and the formation of a new Class II (elementary and high school district) district have been received by Co. Supt. Glenn Turner.

Districts 10, 133 and 145 (Walton) would be dissolved and merged to form the new district. The Walton district is presently a Class II district and Districts 10 and 133 are elementary districts contracting for instruction with the Walton district.

The petitions, containing well over the required number of signatures, will be submitted to the State Committee for school District Reorganization at its May 7 meeting, Turner said.

Belmont Sewer Work To Dobson

A $46,742 contract has been awarded Dobson Bros. Construction Co. for a storm sewer in the Belmont area.

The project calls for construction of conduits for Lynn Creek at its intersection with various streets. New culverts will be placed under Saunders, Dawes and Nance between 9th and 11th; under 9th between Nance and Belmont; and under Adams between 8th and 9th.

The project was a part of those sewers planned when the $3.5 million storm sewer bond issue was submitted to the voters.

The following awards for paving were made:

In 60th, Huntington to Baldwin, Abel Construction Co., $4,039.60.
In 19th, Stockwell to Burnham, Dobson Bros., $7,568.75.
In Franklin, 49th to 50th, Dobson Bros., $3,448.70.
In Gladstone, 56th to 57th, Abel, $5,285.

Election Law Bill Changed To Set May For All Primaries

A bill revising Nebraska's election laws was amended Monday by the government committee to set May as the date for all of the state's primary elections.

The committee voted unanimously to send the bill, LB 80, to the floor.

The Legislature two years ago juggled the primary dates to put presidential year primaries in May and off-year election primaries in August.

Another provision of the election bill will eliminate the possibility of short-short terms in U.S. Senate seats from Nebraska. If approved by the full Unicameral the bill will prevent a repetition of the three months spent in the senate last year by Mrs. Hazel Abel, Lincoln Republican.

Petition Filing Out

However, the committee turned thumbs down on a provision of the bill that might have made re-election to the Unicameral more difficult. The committee deleted a portion of the bill permitting a person to file for the Legislature via the petition method when only one candidate is chosen through the primary.

The 1953 session eliminated the petition method of filing as far as legislative seats are concerned. All other state offices include the petition method in their election procedures.

Other provisions of LB 80: Change the name on the primary ballot from "congressmen" to "representatives in Congress." The change was requested by Nebraska's congressional delegation.

Clarify the deadlines for filing for state offices.

Change the fees charged for filing.

Finishes Work

The government committee concluded its work for the current session in a busy executive meeting Monday.

The committee approved a bill removing the veto power from county surveyors in abandonment decisions on county roads made by a county board.

The bill, LB 536, was amended to include an appeal to District Court from a county board decision. The bill was inspired by a Buffalo County situation where the county surveyor has halted abandonment proceedings proposed by the county board.

LB 502, providing that national Republican and Democratic committee members be selected by popular vote instead of by state convention, was killed by a 7 to 1 vote of the committee.

Nebraska's partisan political leaders had fought the proposed change.

The committee also applied the ax to LB 479, setting up a slum clearance program for Lincoln. The vote was 5 to 3.

LB 489, permitting the Metropolitan

Utilities District to take over the collection of sewer use fees in Omaha, was killed by a 7 to 1 vote. MUD and city officials in Omaha both opposed the measure and had both offered opposing substitute measures.

Sent to the floor by the committee was LB 513, increasing the pension fund for Lincoln policemen and firemen and revamping the entire pension system for the city.

Tax Board To Study Rails' Plea For Value Reduction

State Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington said Monday night it will take the State Board of Equalization a few weeks to decide on railroad valuation figures for this year.

The roads submitted a mass of material at Monday's hearing in support of their plea for a reduction.

Herrington said study of this material would require some time, and after that the board probably will meet informally a few times before reaching a decision.

"We think that those showings and facts result in a discrimination against the railroads in taxation," he said.

He also testified that the board reduced the valuation of motor vehicles in 1952. No change was made in railroad valuation, said Weingarten, "after giving our competitors this enormous reduction."

'Historic Cost' Hit

The roads unanimously objected to continuation of the "historic cost" factor introduced into the formula last year. But if it is to be used, they urged, it should be depreciated heavily for obsolescence.

The railroads did not state a definite figure to which they asked to have their valuations reduced, Herrington said.

New System Asked

Chairman Monroe Bixler of Harrison and three other members of the Legislature's Revenue Committee have asked Herrington to recommend a new setup for taxing railroad property. One of the senators has implied the railroads have been receiving an unfair advantage in taxation.

The railroad representatives contend their assessments should be lowered because of a downward trend in railroad earning power.

E. E. Larsen, Chicago, assistant freight traffic manager of the Burlington, testified that railroads are in "the keenest competitive period in their history."

Change Of School Land Rent Killed

The Legislature's education committee Monday decided not to change the method of rentals for school lands during the current Legislative session. A bill changing the present system, LB 521, was killed by a 6 to 3 vote.

The committee did not consider adoption of an amended form of the bill. The amendment, submitted by Sen. Monroe Bixler, would have put the rental system on a share cropping and animal unit basis.

Another Bixler bill, permitting the sale of the remaining state school lands, was killed by the education committee earlier in the present session.

The original form of LB 521 would have given the leaseholders a choice between a sharecropping system and a new method of appraisal. The amended sharecropping and animal unit system was to be tried on an experimental basis.

According to figures supplied by the Board of Educational Lands and Funds, the proposed animal unit system on a 12-month basis would mean a decrease in rentals.

The leaseholders have maintained that rentals are too high in line with falling farm prices. Educators have fought any decrease in rentals.

Both groups agreed that a share cropping system might be the solution to the problem.

Education committee Chairman Glenn Cramer of Albion said last week that the new Board of Lands and Funds should be given another two years to try to work out an answer before the Legislature takes action.

Discrimination Charged

The railroad spokesmen contended, however, that the state is "discriminating" against this class of property.

J. W. Weingarten, general counsel for the Burlington line, said the assessed value of railroad property is 50 per cent of its sale value while the valuation of other property is only 30 to 35 per cent.

Weingarten presented the case for all railroads jointly while tax agents and attorneys for each line told of their individual situations at a public hearing before the board.

Rails At 50 Pct.

Weingarten presented evidence purporting to show assessment of farm real estate, city real estate, and livestock at from 30 to 35 per cent of sale value in Nebraska during recent years. He said railroad property has been assessed at 50 per cent during the same period.

Cadillac

Class of 1985!

It would take a long time to determine who won the bet—but we'd be willing to wager that the lad in the picture winds up owning a Cadillac!

We feel so confident because he is starting out like a typical Cadillac owner.

Preponderately, Cadillac owners are self-made men. They just emerge—from everywhere.

But they are usually marked, quite early in life, by industry and thrift and the will to succeed.

That's why we say that this wonderful lad—out earning money to make himself self-sufficient—is very likely to wind up owning a Cadillac. Looking at him, as he labors, we estimate the class of 1985!

We hope we are around to deliver his car when the great day arrives—for it's a great thrill to hand out the keys when an owner comes in for his first Cadillac.

It's worth a lot to see the smile on his face and the gleam in his eye as he settles himself behind the wheel—studies the instrument panel to make sure of the controls—and floats away in the direction of home and a family celebration.

Of course, for the lad in the picture, the thrill of that first Cadillac is still a great many years away.

But how about you? Is the time coming close for your dream of a Cadillac to come to a happy ending? If so, we'd be happy—indeed—to see you.

This is a wonderful year for owning a new Cadillac—whether it's your first or your fifth or your tenth. Never before has Cadillac performance been so marvelous—its beauty so arresting—its comfort and handling ease so delightful. It is more decisively than ever—the Standard of the World!

Why not come in today—and check this for yourself? We'll give you the keys and a car—for the most revealing hour you ever spent in a motor car.

—Toll Authority—
Repealer
Signed By

Legislature Votes For Abolishment

Li. Gov. Charles Warner Monday signed into law a bill abolishing the State Turnpike Authority. The Legislature earlier in the day turned down the toll road idea for Nebraska, passing the abolishment bill by a 26 to 15 vote. Warner was serving in his capacity as acting governor while Gov. Anderson is attending the President's National Conference of Governors in Washington. Anderson indicated last week he would make no effort to save the authority. The Authority was created by the 1953 session of the Legislature. Sen. Metzger of Cedar Creek, author of LB 271, the bill to abolish the Authority, criticized the broad powers given to the commission.

Prefers Free Road
The action of the Legislature Monday indicates it prefers Nebraska's part of an interstate highway system to be built with free roads than a turnpike.

The Revenue Committee last week reported to the floor a measure increasing taxation on trucks that is designed to add an additional two million dollars in highway building funds. Gov. Anderson has contended that a four lane highway running through the state is essential to the economic future of Nebraska and must be built whether it is a free or a toll road.

The vote on LB 271:
To abolish the authority—26:
Bjorklund, Lee, Peterson, Hoover, Liebers, Pizer, Bixler, McGinley, Purdy, Hoyer, Martin, Ruhnke, Burney, Metzger, Shultz, Cole, Morrison, Swanson, Diers, Nelson, Thompson, Hoffmeister, Otto, Vogel, Kotouc, Person.
To retain the authority—15:
J. Adams, Cramer, Larkin, Anderson, Fenske, Moulton, Aftenskamp, Foster, Perry, Biedenbaugh, Hubla, Svan, Hoyer, Klaver, Tyrdik.
Not voting—2:
J. Adams, McHenry.

Tax Change, Salary
Hike For Ress Voted

A bill changing the basis of property tax assessment from market value to basic value was passed by a 25 to 13 vote of the Legislature Monday. The Unicameral also gave final approval to a measure that will enable Gov. Anderson to raise the salary of State Engineer L. N. Ress. The state engineer's pay currently is frozen at $8,500 per year. The basic value bill is one of a series of property tax reform measures.

Legalize Procedure
The change to basic value is not expected to change the assessment picture but merely to legalize present procedure. Assessments actually have been below market value.

A pay raise for Ress will be accomplished by designating him as consulting engineer for the State Capitol Building with additional compensation for the additional duties.

Gov. Anderson has indicated he will hike the state engineer's pay to $12,000 per year.

Four other bills were passed Monday. The complete list:

LB 271, Metzger, Peterson, Person. Abolishing the State Turnpike Authority. 25-13.
LB 413, Mc Henry, Lee, Bixler. Providing for appointment of State engineer as consulting engineer for State Capitol Building. (E) 36-3.
LB 148, Liebers, Kotouc, Vogel, Person, Bixler, Martin. Providing that the basic value of property shall be used as the basis of assessment. 25-13.
LB 498, Kotouc, Peterson. Prohibiting sale without a license of new merchandise by vendors who have no established place of business. (E) 40-2.
LB 343, Tyrdik. Providing for attorney fees on recovery of claims not exceeding $1,000. 34-9.
LB 191, Perry, Peterson, Diers. Transferring enforcement of itinerant merchant's law from Department of Agriculture to State railway commission. 32-10.

Ft. Robinson Funds Hit Opposition

A proposal to appropriate $94,000 to the State Game Commission to develop tourist accommodations at historic Fort Robinson in northwest Nebraska ran into opposition on the floor of the Legislature Monday.

The proposal did not reach a test vote, however, before noon adjournment arrived. The measure, LB 544, is scheduled to be taken up again Tuesday.

Sen. Bixler, Harrison, described the scenic attractions of the site, and predicted it would become a lure to tourists headed west on U.S. 20 or en route to the Black Hills.

'Rent Free'
He said the site of the adobe structures which could be converted into tourist cabins, and the brick structure which could be used as a lodge, can be leased indefinitely from the government "practically rent-free."

But when Sen. Thomas Adams of Lincoln commented that the $94,000 project probably was "only a beginning" of what could be expected to develop at Fort Robinson, Sen. Beaver of Beemer replied:

"That's right. It's only a beginning. I think $94,000 is only a drop in the bucket compared to what it will take eventually."

Walnut Watershed Survey Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Weaver (R-Neb.) said Monday authorization has been given by the Soil Conservation Service for investigations and surveys of the Walnut Creek watershed, including 79,053 acres in Richardson County, Neb., and Brown County, Kan.

Weaver said that under a 1954 law the Department of Agriculture through state and territorial conservationists of the SCS may give technical assistance to organized groups of farmers living in small watersheds where floods, drought and soil erosion are causing serious damage.

Jefferson Co. Counts First Irrigation Well

DAYKIN, Neb. (AP)—Sam Lewis, who farms near Daykin, has sunk the first successful irrigation well in Jefferson County. Well experts believe it may be capable of producing up to 1,000 gallons of water a minute.

Beaver said Crawford interests recently acquired 17 acres of land adjoining the fort. "Why can't they put up modern cabins?" he asked. Sen. Bridenbaugh of Dakota City, chairman of the budget committee, noted the Game Commission allocated $62,000 to Chadron state park, in the same general area, in the 1951-53 period. That, he declared, was two or three times what was spent on any other state park.

"Things should be spread around. We can't go altogether on tradition and history, and serve the people of the state of Nebraska at the same time," he declared.

Miller Heads Daily Advertising Assn.

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—Bill Miller, advertising manager of The Kearney Hub, was elected president of the Nebraska Daily Advertising Managers Assn.

Other officers named at the meeting, attended by 13 representatives from Nebraska daily newspapers, included Jim Kirkman, North Platte, vice president, and George Marvin, Beatrice, secretary-treasurer.

Runaway Boys Ransack Home To Fool Folks

CHAPMAN, Neb. (AP)—A pair of farm boys who decided to leave home to seek their fortune prompted a search by state and county officers and upwards of 100 neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hodwalker returned to their farm home 2 miles east of here to find the house ransacked, drawers pulled and the windows broken. James, 12, and Dick Hodwalker, 11, were missing. Also gone was a .22 rifle. Searchers scoured the area including nearby sandpits. About 8 p.m. a neighbor brought in the two boys. Lt. Guy Smith of the State Safety Patrol said the boys had decided to leave home and had torn up the house to make it look as though foul play had been involved.

Capitol Gathering Honors Anderson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Victor Anderson of Nebraska was honored Monday at a breakfast at the Capitol given by Clarence A. Davis, undersecretary of the interior.

More than 40 Nebraskans, many of them prominent in the Federal Government, attended. Anderson spoke briefly about state legislative and road matters. Those present included Nebraska's six members of Congress; two former Nebraska governors, Val Peterson, now head of the Civil Defense Administration, and Roy Cochran, now with the Budget Bureau; U. S. District Judge Charles McLaughlin; Laurens Williams, assistant to the secretary of the treasury; Asst. Secretary of State Sam Waugh; Perry Morton and Lee Rankin, assistant attorneys general; I. W. Carpenter, comptroller of the State Department, and Homer Gruenther, special assistant to the president.

$750,000 Drive Is Proposed For Midland College

OMAHA (AP)—A proposed $750,000 fund drive for Midland College, Fremont, will be up for discussion at the Central States Evangelical Lutheran Synod, United Lutheran Church in America, convention May 10-12. Speakers at the meeting, expected to draw delegates from Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Iowa, Oklahoma, Texas and South Dakota, include Dr. Edwin Moll, New York, former director of the Lutheran World Federation's Near East branch, and Dr. Henry Endress, New York, director of the Lutheran Laymen's movement.

"Boys," said Al Jennings, "they're a lot worse thieves outa the penitentiary than they is in. An' that's in the record."

Mr. Al Jennings is the last of the Oklahoma train robbers. He is spry as a fiddler at 91 and lives just outside Los Angeles. Since I was on my way to Texas, I thought I would drop in and see if Al hid any of his loot down thataway.

"Never buried a dime," said Mr. Jennings. "Some of it I give away. But most of it was stole from me by the crooked lawyers and politicians."

"Come up to Hollywood and put my money in Beesemeyer's bank. Had a couple of bars of gold. Villa's stuff. Come down town later and they was women weepin' an' a-hollerin' outside. 'The banks been robbed,' they says. 'Yes,' I says. 'Robbed from the inside.' An' that's a fact, boys. That's history!"

"I'm a killer, boys," said Mr. Jennings. "I guess you know that. Now that's the truth. Only five feet four in my boots, but a killer. 'Now killin' a man to me don't mean a god-durn thing. That was trained into me by the greatest gun fighter ever lived. Jim Stanton. That wasn't his real name, boys. His name was Hatfield. One of them West Virginia feud fellers."

"Good gosh a-mighty. If I was to tell you all the things I seen, I'm a Democrat but they're just as big a bunch of thieves as the Republicans. That's all in the record, boys. I know these things. Teddy Roosevelt, himself, pardoned me. 'Why, boys, you talk of Texas. I got two chunks of lead in me now from that fight over at the Spike S ranch. A 30-30 hit me in the laig here."

"Boys, Bill Irwin went over there and counted the bullet holes in that little box house. Over 400 shots filed through that place — broke all the dishes an' ever' god-durn thing an' us in there."

"Who was shooting at you, Al?" "Bud Ledbetter an' his marshals. We whipped the whole durn bunch an' got away! Now, that's history, boys! It's all in the records."

"Frank was all shot up — that was my brother. He was a fine musician. All of us boys was trained musicians before I become a outlaw. I played the tuba. Now, let me tell you about that before I fergit it."

"That's how I got outa the Ohio penitentiary. Played a tuba solo for the warden. Now, that's the truth, boys."

Mr. Jennings went in the house and came back with a big, frontier model .45 with the sights and trigger filed off.

"Now, here's one of the guns I used," Mr. Jennings flipped it up from his hip. I could see the brass cartridges twinkling and said so.

"Well, I'll just unload it," said Al. "I allus carry five in the cylinder and empty under the hammer." He flipped the gun again and fanned the hammer with his thumb. I noticed there were only four shells emptied on the ground.

Mr. Jennings was throwing down on a lady who was bending over in the vegetable garden. I mentioned the missing shell.

"I guess I fogot one," said Al casually opening the gun and extracting the bullet.

"That's Maud, my wife," he explained. "She was a great friend or Jessie James."

"Now, it was in the pen I saw Bill Porter again. O. Henry was the name he wrote under. Met him down in Honduras. Asked him to rob a bank with me but he wouldn't. I put $2,000 in his pocket, anyway."

"Al," I said, "didn't you bury one little ol' bag of loot down in Texas I could dig up for you?"

"Not a cent," said Mr. Jennings regretfully. "That was just a story I told the guard to get him to smuggle in a saw. That pen bored me. I wanted to git out. 'Slip me the briars an' I'll dig up the loot,' I says. An' he done it. 'They sent me up for life plus five years for shootin' Bud Ledbetter. But boys, they had no warrant for us. We was entitled to defend ourselves. I ain't against a marshal killin' you an' then readin' the warrant after you're dead."

"But they didn't even know who we was. They was after me for stealin' a saddle at the time. An' that's history, boys, I swear to heaven!"

'Save-The-Train' Bill Chugs To Stop In Committee

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

The "save-the-train" proposal didn't have enough steam to make it to the floor of the Legislature after a hearing Monday.

The bill, LB 554, stalled in the Judiciary Committee without enough votes to either advance or kill.

The measure is an effort of residents along the Northwestern Railroad between Omaha and Chadron to "save" the one-passenger train running each way daily on the 450-mile route.

Eliminate Flagman

The proposed bill would allow trains with only two passenger coaches to eliminate the flagman. Proponents of the bill predicted that the $28,000 saving on the flagman's wages with other efforts they are making would keep the trains running. They said no other railroads would be affected.

Representatives of the rail brotherhoods, in opposition, said that other roads would come under the provisions and mean the release of 80 flagmen. Proponents said it would be better for five to lose jobs than remove the trains and have over 50 lose jobs.

Serves 40 counties

The bill was introduced by Sen. Frank Nelson of O'Neill by special permission.

C. W. Stewart, O'Neill, president of the "Save The Trains" Association, said the route serves 40 Nebraska counties and some territory in South Dakota with a population of 350,000 persons. He said the company spends 59 cents of every dollar for labor which is the highest of any railroad in the country.

Stewart argued that there is a 92 mile stretch between Gordon and Valentine which has no bus service to help if the trains are discontinued. He said some parts of the area are 250 miles from another railroad and loss of the trains would hamper inducing industry to that section.

Two Empty Cars

Fay Hill, Gordon banker and rancher; B. J. DeLay, Norfolk banker, and Julius Cronin, O'Neill lawyer also spoke for the bill.

Claude Spear, Omaha, representing the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said the railroad carries two empty cars from Long Pine to Chadron, and J. J. Hayes, Omaha, said the flagman is necessary for safety because the rail line has no block signals or centralized control.

O. D. Menefee, Fairbury, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, said that the saving proposed would be only $883 per 100 miles and that unlike a bus which could pull off to the side of the road, the flagman was needed for safety purposes.

"Instead of breaking down our safety laws, we ought to strengthen them," Menefee asserted.

Others opposing the bill included L. L. Dowling, McCook, Order of Railroad Conductors, and Joe Gerstein, Lincoln, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur 'Bugs' Boer

When you ask if one of the fair sex will ever be President, do you mean state fair or world fair?

There has already been a governor of a state. It was Mr. Ferguson who barged in after Pa Ferguson had lost out. It got me into a hassle of trouble with no more protection than an albino's eyebrows.

I happened to write a line that went, "In the old days of Texas when men were men—and so were the governors."

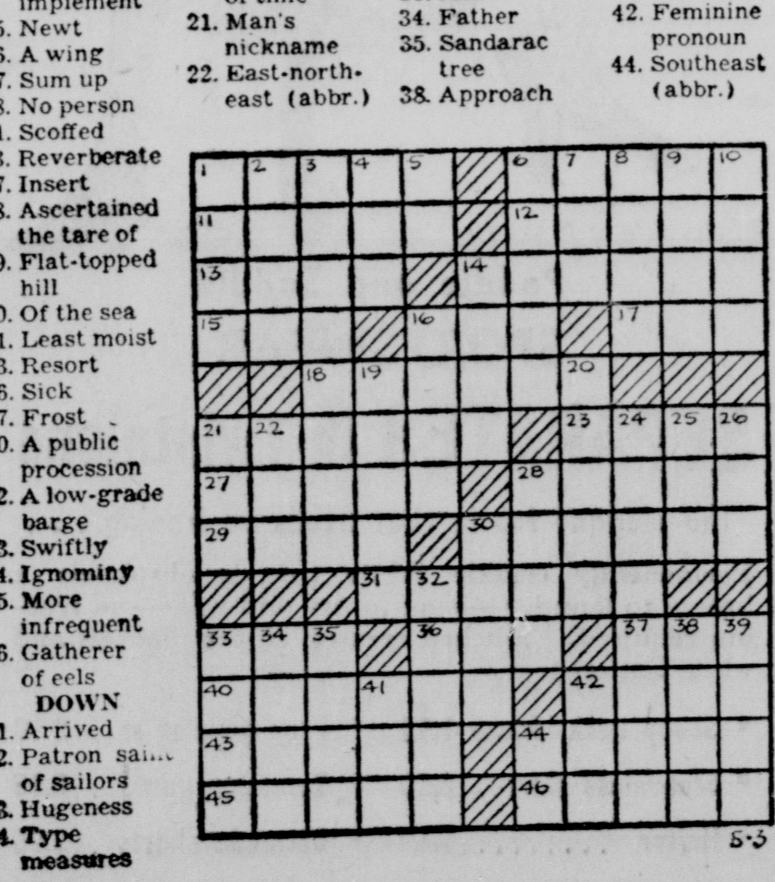

It arrived in Houston eventually by the vaudeville route via Bill Halligan, Ned Clothes Norton and Jim Corbett.

Pa Ferguson heard it and was fit to be tied. He challenged me to a duel. My choice of weapons was oyster forks at different banquets. Amon Carter stepped in and smoothed things out like the upper deck of a galloping camel.

The girls realize you have to be 35 to be President. Fortunately, you can lie about that and you don't have to be weighed.

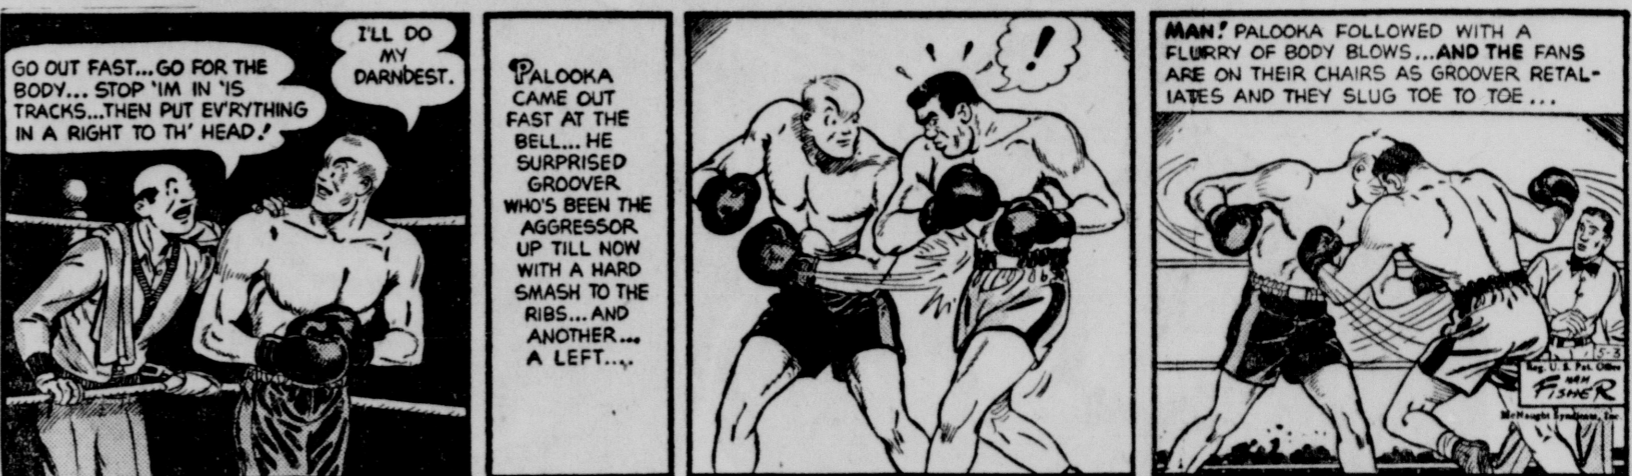

We will vote for Mrs. President on the basic theory any change is an improvement.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three E's, Z for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
